Sergey Katyrin

President of the Russian Chamber of Commerce and Industry

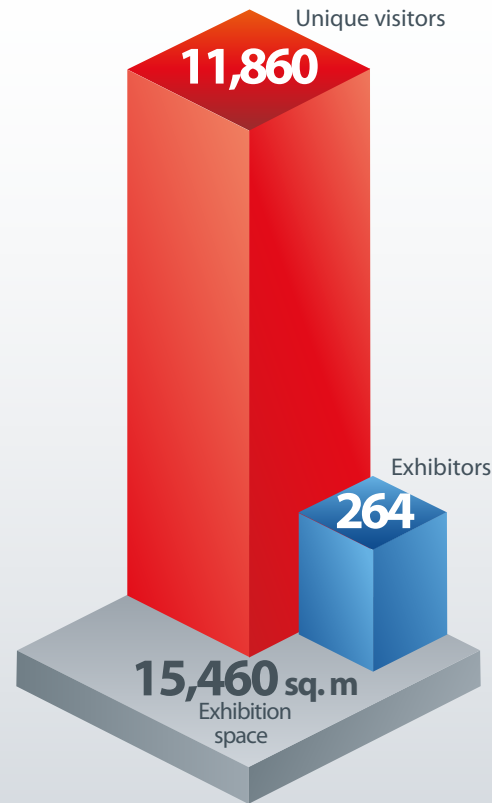

“The construction industry rightfully occupies one of the key places in this country's economy. It ensures the development of infrastructure, creates a comfortable urban environment, stimulates related industries, and creates millions of jobs. Russian Construction Week regularly serves as an effective platform for demonstrating the latest technologies, exchange of experience, and development of business ties.”

Maxim Fateev

Director General of EXPOCENTRE AO

“Russian Construction Week serves not only as a showcase, but also as a business platform, which includes forums, conferences, and panels where participants discuss key challenges and prospects of the industry and consider pressing issues of state support and international cooperation.”

What our exhibitors say

Kirill Kholopik

Head at the ERZ.RF portal,
Chief of Staff at the National Association of Home Builders

“The programme of Russian Construction Week is full of sessions that have brought together authorities, developers, manufacturers of building materials, and banks to discuss improving the comfort and aesthetics of cities. The first Olympics of Developers within the Forum for Building the Future of Russia Together aroused great interest among both participants and visitors. Competition and exchange of practices improve the quality of architecture and landscaping.”

Aleksandr Kitaev-Smyk

Founder of Shkola Okna Plus

“We are at World of Glass, which is a leading industry platform with a large number of visitors and exhibitors. Modernization proposals – for machine tools, whole units and components – prevail at the show. The market is also aging in terms of personnel, but there is an influx of young professionals and entrepreneurs as many stands today belong to young owners. World of Glass still covers a wide range of products such as architectural, fire resistant and safety glass, as well as glass containers.”

Elena Edzhe

Executive Director at the Association of Container Glass
Manufacturers

“World of Glass remains the main platform for dialogue between suppliers, manufacturers and consumers of glass containers. It is the place to discuss practical issues of the industry and demonstrate advanced developments. There are no similar platforms in terms of scale and efficiency of communications today.”

Video report

The Olympics of Developers

Russian Construction Week 2026 introduced the Olympics of Developers. It is a new professional format of the conference programme that brings together leading market participants. The teams presented cases and competed in management, marketing, and product solutions, demonstrating a high level of expertise, practical experience, and the ability to propose effective approaches to the development of development projects.

The result was a marathon of ideas and practical solutions, which allowed shifting the focus from discussing problems to spreading working practices.
